We represent small businesses and Fortune 100 corporations, governmental agencies, manufacturers and marketers of products from prescription drugs to furniture, providers of medical, accounting and consulting professional services and academic institutions.

The Real Estate Practice Group maintains a full-service real estate practice with extensive experience in commercial real estate transactions, including acquisitions, dispositions, financing, construction, complex commercial leasing and privatization. The Real Estate Practice Group also advises clients in matters of real estate litigation, including condemnation, commercial mortgage foreclosures and real property tax appeals on behalf of public entities, corporations and entrepreneurs.

Our team of real estate lawyers represents public and private entities, as well as local and national organizations and agencies in the business of developing, owning, managing and operating real estate assets. As attorneys who are concerned with resolving issues efficiently while keeping in mind our clients' business objectives, we are known in the industry as "deal makers" rather than "deal breakers." We focus on clarity and brevity in all of our documentation.
